

BUT NOBODY DOES IT THAT WAY

In 1977 when at 19 years old I started Painting With Pride I heard that I couldn't do this and couldn't do that. No one would work for me if I had rules like no smoking on the job. I insisted on a dress code that included wearing whites, a company T-shirt, and no earrings. I wouldn't request or accept deposits and my "contract" was a simple agreement that customers loved and lawyers would laugh at. I paid all my taxes, had insurance, and didn't pay my help cash. That was back in 1977. Today I've learned why nobody does it that way. It's just too hard. Too many rules. It's too expensive to follow all the rules. You can't find help if you insist on holding people to a higher standard and certainly must follow a lawyer's advice if you want to win in court.

For all this knowledge and experience I say "No thank you". In thirty years we've not changed our ethics, principles, philosophies, or character. We understand that in order to stay competitive we could bend the rules, relax our standards, and many other creative ways to short to gain.

But painting your house is not our top priority. Honoring God and serving our fellow man is. That includes not only our customers but also the young person at the paint store who watches us run our business fairly. The many hundreds of young people who have worked for Painting With Pride through college and come back to us saying how much they learned and enjoyed their stay. Our entire workforce many whom own their own homes because they have a legitimate record of employment and were able to get a home mortgage.

I'm getting close to fifty years old now and have a few more years in me. Lord willing. I don't know if we'll save you lots of money. I hope we can. But one thing for sure when you hire Painting With Pride to do your painting you can rest assure you will get a great job, friendly & dependable workforce, and maybe some peace knowing that you dealt with a company that by many standards today survives by the Grace of God and faith that its still okay to do things a little different.

Call today to find out how our "Buy The Hour" program can work for you.

Proverbs 3:5-6